

DECLARATION OF END USE

The United States Government requires all U.S. manufacturers of military end-use items to verify the end-user in all sales, including drop shipments, of U.S. manufactured products specifically designed or modified for military end-use. ZERO Manufacturing, Inc. (ZERO) requires your assistance to ensure full compliance with these regulations.

Non-U.S. Customers: In order to verify compliance with U.S. export control regulations, ZERO requires a completed Declaration of End-Use form prior to processing your order. If ZERO determines that the item(s) that you are purchasing require an export license, your order will be placed on hold until you have supplied all of the information required to submit the export license application.

The licensing process generally takes 2-3 weeks once all of the information has been received. Additional time may be required to obtain the export license. The quoted lead time for your order will not begin until ZERO receives an approved export license. If ZERO is unable to obtain an export license, your order will be cancelled without penalty or further obligation from ZERO. ZERO will not process your order without the completed forms.

U.S. Customers: It is your responsibility to obtain permission from The U.S. Department of State and/or The U.S. Department of Commerce prior to exporting items that are regulated by these agencies. Please complete the attached Declaration of End-Use to confirm your intentions regarding the end-use and possible export of these products. Thank you for helping ZERO be compliant with the laws of the United States Government.

ZERO either received your Request for Quote (RFQ) or Purchase Order (PO) for a custom designed product. The United States Government requires ZERO to verify the end-use purpose and ultimate destination of any custom designed product. Export licenses are required for any product with military design intent that will be exported outside the United States.
